Biography

A young and energetic coach whose approach is built on discipline, preparation, and servant leadership. My philosophy centers on righteousness, discipline, courage, accountability, and service, principles that shape the culture I expect within a program and the way I develop players both on and off the field. Guided strongly by my Catholic faith, I view coaching as stewardship and leadership on top of vital competition. My analytical mindset drives my habit of studying play-callers and understanding the structural details that make offenses effective. Currently serving as Quarterbacks Coach at Culver-Stockton College with the goal of becoming a renowned play caller that develops and puts players out to the next level.
